

Ph.D. in Medical Physics

Applications are now being accepted!
Fall 2025 admissions deadline is December 3, 2024

Program Description

- CAMPEP accredited MS program; planned for PhD program
- Five-year graduate program
- 38 credits and completion of a research thesis
- Dual-track program: CAMPEP track and non-CAMPEP track
- Designed for full-time students interested in pursuing a career as a medical physicist as a researcher, a certified clinical professional, or in industry
- Johns Hopkins is headquartered in Baltimore, Maryland
- Joint program between Radiology and Radiation Oncology

Admissions

- Full-time students
- U.S. and international students
- Requirements:
 - CAMPEP: Bachelor's degree in physics, applied physics, or one of the physical sciences, including physics training at least equivalent to a minor
 - Non-CAMPEP: Bachelor's degree
 - TOEFL or IELTS scores (non-native English speakers)
 - General GRE exam scores. Physics GRE recommended

Johns Hopkins
Medical Physics

MedPhysPhD@jhmi.edu

601 N. Caroline St., JHOC RM 4263, Baltimore, MD 21287
Contact 443-287-2425

JOHNS HOPKINS
MEDICINE